

Free Prescription Drug Cards Offered to Support Cover the Uninsured National Campaign Events

Nearly 20,000 free prescription drug cards have been distributed throughout the country to reduce the cost of prescription drugs

WHEATON, Ill., April 28, 2008 /PRNewswire via COMTEX/ -- Elations Health, LLC located in Wheaton, Illinois today announced its support of the national Cover the Uninsured Week's 2008 campaign by providing free prescription drug cards for distribution at events around the country. Cover the Uninsured, a project of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, is a national effort to highlight the fact that too many Americans are living without health insurance. The campaign events will take place April 27 - May 3 with thousands of activities across the country -- visit <http://www.covertheuninsured.org>.

The free cards offer savings averaging 31% off the price of most commonly prescribed drugs. Individuals and families seeking financial relief from the increasing cost burden of prescription drugs can take advantage of this program instantly and free of charge. The cards benefit those currently uninsured or whose medications are not covered through their existing insurance company. In addition to the donated cards, free personalized drug cards are distributed electronically through the company's website at <http://www.easydrugcard.com> and are available to anyone regardless of age, income, or existing health insurance coverage. Since this is not insurance there are no deductibles, no premiums, no membership fees, and no waiting periods with the use of the free prescription drug card.

Christopher Petersen, CEO of Elations Health stated, "We are proud to support this campaign by providing our prescription drug cards and help raise awareness of the health savings options available within our communities. We applaud the efforts of the event coordinators reaching out to enroll eligible uninsured families in public health programs through these events."
